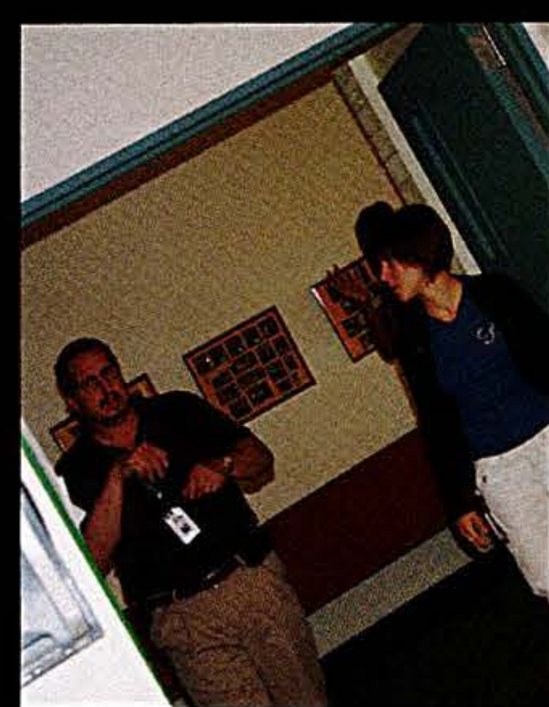
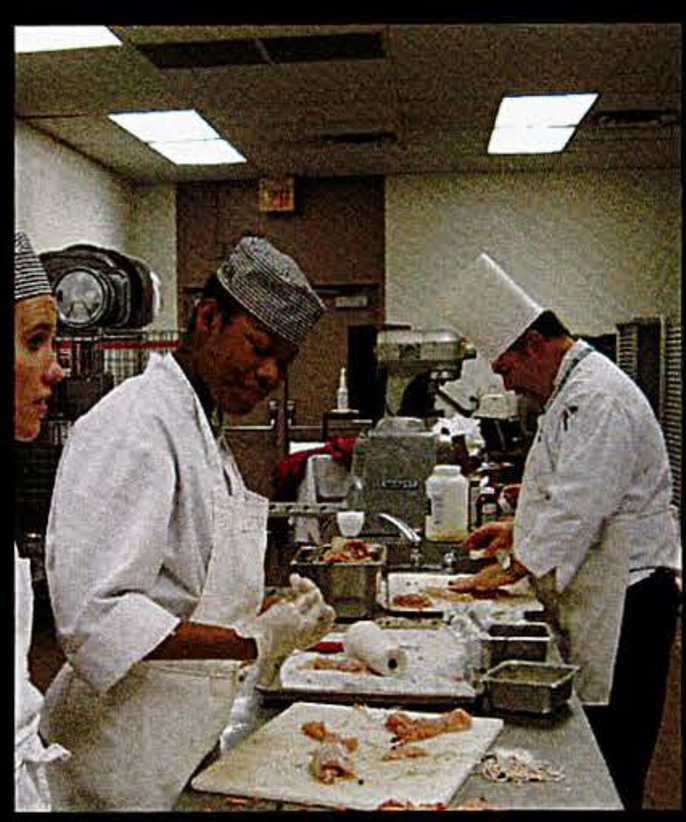
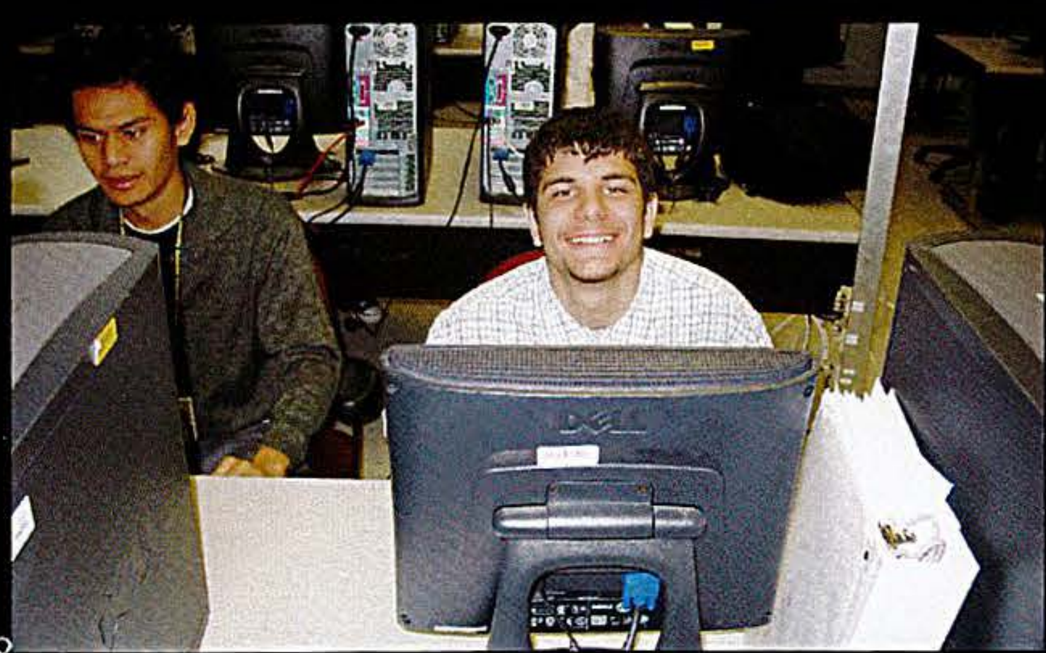
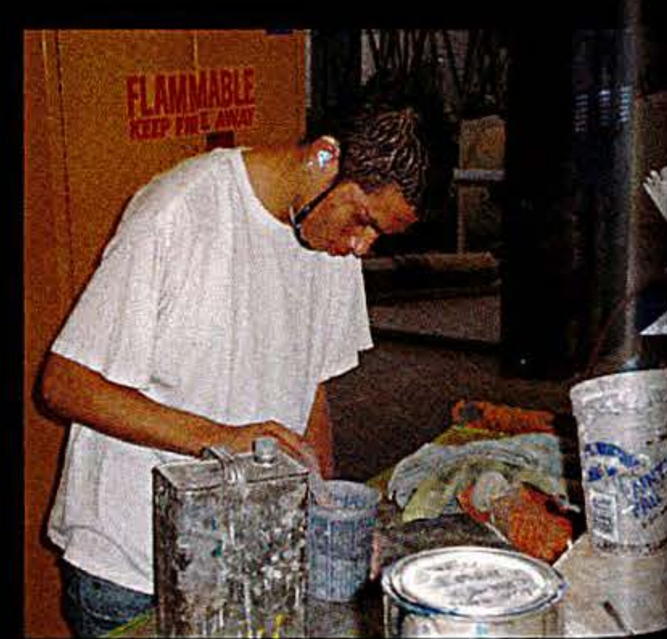
-Wanna be Next American Top Model ;-)

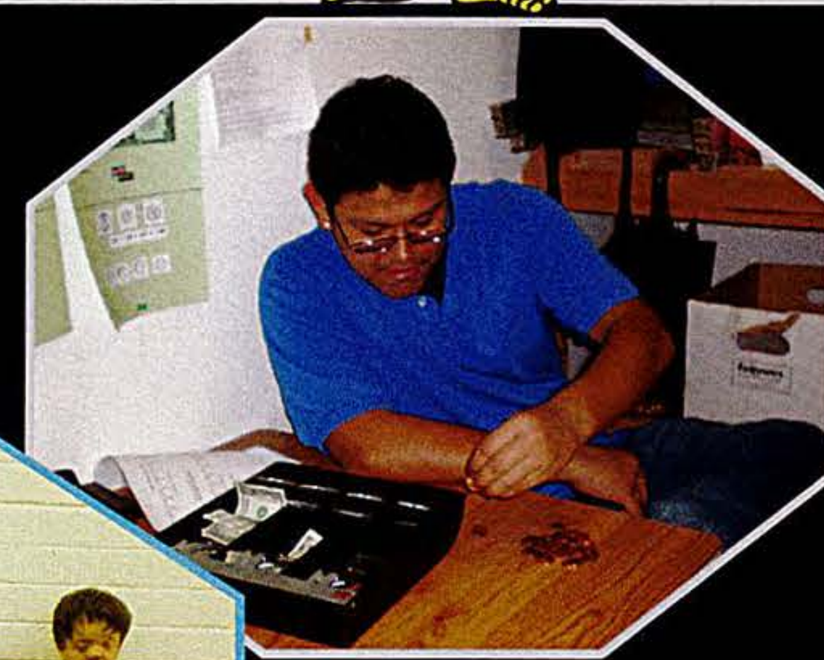






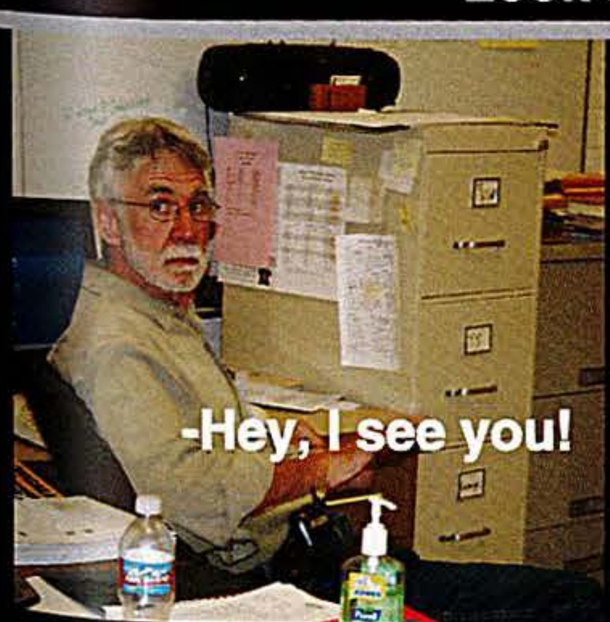


TRAINING



The purpose of vocational training is to help the students learn skills to prepare for the future. Adults work with the students to plan for adulthood. Areas of focus include independent living, employment, and self-advocacy. High school students also participate in career exploration and gain job-seeking skills during their work experience opportunities both on and off campus with the support of our trainers. Students also receive interpreters and tutors at Metro Tech and East Valley Institute of Technology.

-Look at them, they work so hard. preparing for their future...good jobs, guys!

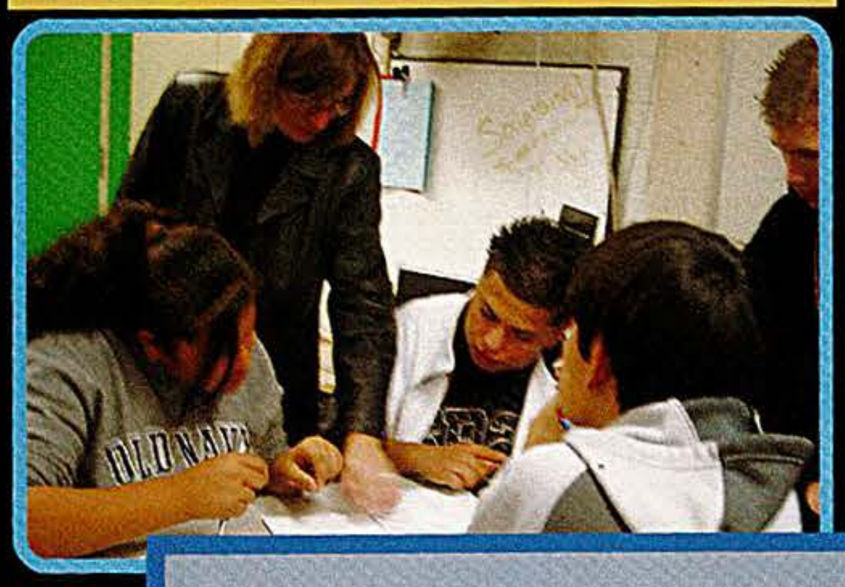


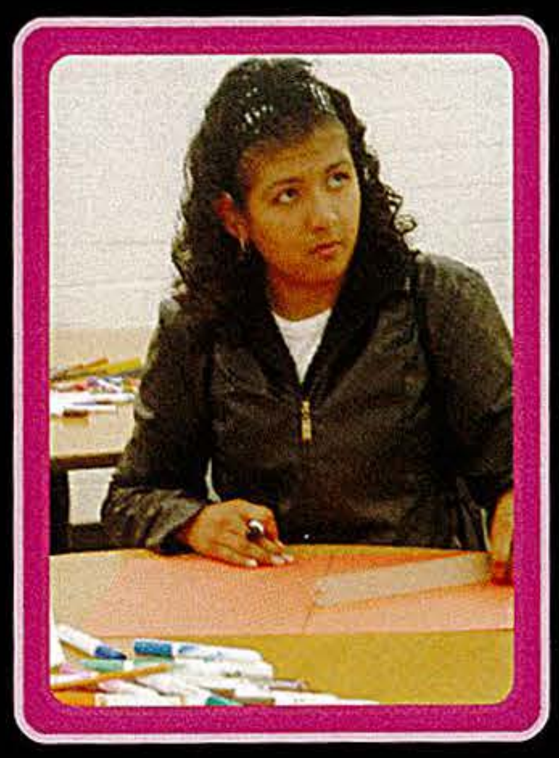
-Hey, I see you!

High School Team Building

The High School team building activity was an all morning experience. Students were grouped into five teams and rotated between different subjects. Students had to help each other, and work together to figure out the "PROBLEMS."

Everyone worked hard, and thought as a team to earn as many points as possible. The science roller coaster activity as the most popular. The day was great opportunity for learning for all!!





We had so much fun!

Let's do it again!!!

Academic Bowl

"I enjoyed working with my team as an Academic Bowl captain. Although we didn't win any trophies, we managed to get four wins and three losses. But the main priority is that we're having fun learning new things. --- Jorge Andrade"

Jr.NAD

What does Jr.NAD mean? Junior National Association for the Deaf (Jr.NAD) is a program of the NAD. The Junior NAD offers deaf and hard of hearing students in 9th through 12th grade many opportunities to develop leadership skills, to learn, demonstrate citizenship, and meet and interact with deaf students from other schools in other states. Last fall, we spent four days in Tucson for the Jr.NAD National Conference workshops.

What is your most embarrassing moment at the school?

"A few years ago in the old voc. room, I was playing with what I thought was a coworkers lighter. I soon discovered I was mistaken when a brown spray came out of the nozzle! I had just sprayed mace! (Pepper spray actually) Everyone immediately started coughing, choking, eyes watering, nose running As we were running outside for some fresh air we passed the deaf job coaches & fingerspelled, "m a c e." To our surprise, they continued to sit there! They later came running out coughing and hacking. We soon learned that they thought we had fingerspelled "m i c e!" To make a long story short, all of the vocational staff was sent home early, we all had to fill out workman's compensation papers, and I was given a new name sign by the transition specialist, Ingrid Flemming; - B hand shape - bent at the fingertips a few times to indicate something being sprayed - as in a can of pepper spray!"

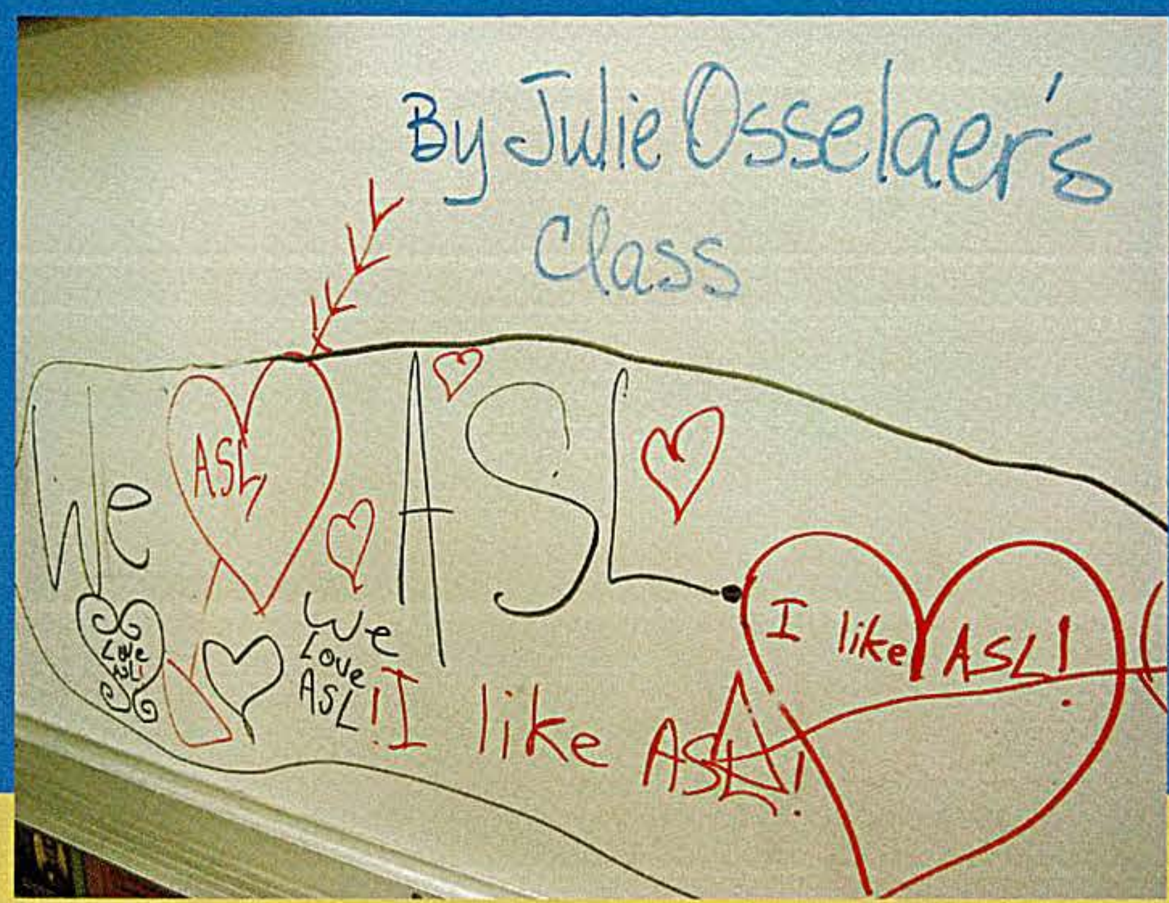
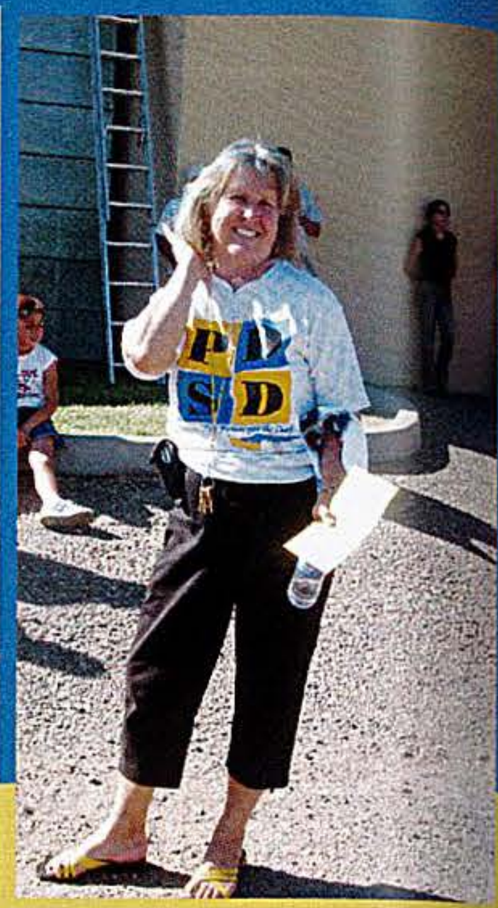
Final Quotes





Farewell,
Mrs. Amann

Recently, a colleague asked me if i was leaving. i said yes and she said, " you are too young to retire!" Later, after another colleague asked the same question, he said, "Go fly like a free bird."

I could hardly believe I have spent 30 years at PDSD. Being a teacher, a coach, an extracurricular sponsor, and a sign language trainer, I have never had dull moment at PDSD! When I began here, PDSD was a small school with 85 students, a few buildings and an overhead projector. Now, there is a massive two-story building ready for occupancy, and the SmartBoard is the thing!

There are many wonderful memories of my classes; they have been shuffled like a deck or lost in chronological sequence. I saw students' eyes opening like flowers. I saw the beautiful faces of young people, earnest, funny, intense, searching, exploring. I saw the tired faces, too. There were laughter, tears, and arguments. Students were a delight to teach, work, and communicate with. what wonderful memories!

As I say goodbye, I will feel a part of me stay at PDSD. I will miss you all."

~Bonelle Amann

Our appreciation:
"For all the staff who generously shared their photos, quotes, and time with us. A special thanks to Sonia Baumann who continues to supply our yearbook with photos of...everything! To those staff who donate their tax dollars to our book, and to all the students, parents, staff and friends who supported us this year with the purchase of the backpacks and totes...
A huge thank you!" ~Amy King
